EU Observer (3 July 2020)

France has been ordered to pay symbolic fines of €10,000 to €10,000 to three refugees who lived on the streets for several months by the European Court of Human Rights in Strasbourg. The Afghan, Iranian, and Russian people were "victims of a degrading treatment reflecting a lack of respect for their dignity", the court said. The Iranian journalist was homeless for six months. The Afghan was homeless for 262 days.
