Croatian President Zoran Milanovic said that the Bosnian Serbs strongman political leader Milorad Dodik is Croats partner in controversial efforts to change Bosnia and Herzegovinas electoral system.

Zoran Milanovic told media in Zagreb on Monday that Milorad Dodik, the Serb member of Bosnia and Herzegovinas tripartite state presidency, is an ally in an ongoing political crisis over claims by Bosnian Croats that their rights to elect fellow Croats are being usurped by Bosniaks.

We wont solve this problem without the Serbs in Bosnia and Herzegovina, Milanovic said.
