To solve the issue of water shortage in Bishkek, 100 million soms and land plots in four areas are required. Deputy Marlen Mamataliev announced at a meeting of the Parliament of Kyrgyzstan.

According to him, this follows from the letters of the Bishkek City Hall addressed to the Cabinet.

«The City Hall of the capital has been appealing to the Cabinet for two years. It asks to allocate plots and money for the construction of water intakes. Due to the fact that the government did not respond properly, the city is now experiencing a shortage of water. It turned out that 100 million soms and land in four areas are needed. We must allocate these funds,» Marlen Mamataliev said.
