Belarusian President Alexander Lukashenko publicly criticized Armenia on Friday one week after Prime Minister Nikol Pashinian met with an exiled opponent of his regime in Europe.

Lukashenko urged ex-Soviet republics making up the Commonwealth of Independent States (CIS) to close ranks in the face of what he described as the Wests attempts to tear us to pieces.

First, Georgia left our grouping; de facto, Ukraine is not with us; and there are big questions about Moldova. Unfortunately, Armenia does not always behave like a partner, he said during CIS summit in Bishkek shunned by Pashinian.
