Russia wants Azerbaijan and Armenia to keep talking to settle all disputes and sign a peace deal, said Russian Presidential Spokesman Dmitry Peskov, according to TASS.

Asked at a daily news briefing to comment on the recent protests in Armenia against the current state of the countrys border delimitation with Azerbaijan, Peskov said "We would rather not comment on it."

"We [Russia] are in favor of further negotiations between Baku and Yerevan," he said. "We believe that the talks are necessary to defuse the situation, settle all disputed issues on the agenda and sign a peace deal as soon as possible."
