Kakha Kaladze, Secretary General of the ruling Georgian Dream party and Mayor of Tbilisi, has accused Western politicians of exerting unprecedented pressure on Georgia regarding the newly adopted law on transparency of foreign influence.

Kaladze claimed that this pressure includes attempts to instigate a revolutionary scenario within the country, News.Az reports citing Interfax.

"We are ready to cooperate with the West if we see friendly relations, not unprecedented pressure, not enmity confirmed by concrete facts. Enmity is when the West finances a revolutionary scenario in Georgia," Kaladze stated at a town hall meeting.
