The visit of the First Deputy Minister of Defense of the Republic of Azerbaijan, Chief of the General Staff of the Azerbaijani Army, Colonel-General Karim Valiyev to Serbia marked a new phase in strengthening military-technical cooperation between the two countries. Invited by the Chief of the General Staff of the Armed Forces of Serbia, Colonel-General Milan Mojsilović, Colonel-General Valiyev held a series of official meetings aimed at enhancing bilateral relations in the military sphere.

During the meeting at the General Staff of the Armed Forces of Serbia, the prospects for developing military cooperation between Azerbaijan and Serbia were discussed. Valiyev and his Serbian counterpart had an extensive exchange of views on issues of mutual interest, including military tactics, experience sharing, and cooperation in peacekeeping operations. The discussions covered important topics such as the exchange of advanced military technologies and the conduct of joint exercises, which could significantly enhance the combat readiness of both states.

The next meeting took place between Colonel-General Valiyev and the Serbian Minister of Defense, Colonel-General Bratislav Gašić. Specific aspects of bilateral military cooperation were discussed, including issues of military-technical cooperation and joint educational programs for military personnel. Both parties expressed their readiness to continue active dialogue and implement specific projects in the field of defense, contributing to trust and stability in the region, which is particularly important in the current international conditions.
