The minister highlighted that the liberation of the occupied territories has opened a new chapter in the attainment of the SDGs, and Azerbaijan has already invested $10 million in reconstruction and rehabilitation efforts.

In his speech at the Summit of the Future at the UN General Assembly, Azerbaijan's Foreign Minister Jeyhun Bayramov emphasized that Azerbaijan had experienced the most tragic consequences of violations of international and humanitarian law and faced injustice due to the failure to implement the charters and resolutions of key UN bodies. He underscored the importance of strict adherence to international law and the avoidance of double standards.

The minister also discussed the ongoing reconstruction efforts in Azerbaijan's liberated territories, which contribute to the achievement of the Sustainable Development Goals (SDGs). In the context of global challenges, such as climate change and geopolitical tensions, Azerbaijan supports the call for collective action to combat inequality. Bayramov noted that achieving the SDGs by 2030 requires the urgent implementation of political commitments, and Azerbaijan is actively working on 17 goals, 88 targets, and 119 indicators, involving various stakeholders, including civil society and the business community.
