Amnesty International on Tuesday called on Slovenia and Montenegro to not allow the docking of a Portuguese-flagged vessel, which allegedly carries explosives destined for Israel.

According to statements from Namibia's government and Portugals Foreign Minister, the ship is transporting eight containers of RDX Hexogen explosives destined for Israel.

"The deadly cargo believed to be on board the MV Kathrin must not reach Israel, as there is a clear risk that such cargo would contribute to the commission of war crimes against Palestinian civilians," said Natasa Posel, the head of Amnesty International Slovenia.
