Kabar (3 October 2024)

Heads of Governments of the Eurasian Economic Union (EAEU) signed the concept of formation of a common exchange market of goods, the Eurasian Economic Commission said.

The document will help the development of national exchanges of the Eurasian five countries and will enable businesses to expand markets. In this case, consumers will have access to goods, the prices for which will be formed on a competitive basis.

The main objectives of the formation of a common exchange market for goods are the formation of objective market prices for exchange goods, growth of trade volumes in the Union, increase in the share of settlements in national currencies and the formation of fair pricing of EAEU goods on the world market.
