The United States has praised Armenia and Azerbaijan for their recent ratification of an agreement to regulate the process of border delimitation and demarcation between the two South Caucasus nations.

The U.S. commends Armenia and Azerbaijan for formalizing the rules of procedure for border delimitation, demonstrating that progress is possible through sustained dialogue, U.S. Department of State spokesperson Matthew Miller wrote on X on October 31.

We support both sides work towards a durable, dignified peace for security and prosperity in the region, he added.
