Turkmen President Serdar Berdimuhamedow and Turkish Trade Minister Omer Bolat met in Ashgabat to discuss advancing bilateral cooperation and enhancing trade ties between their two countries. The focus of the discussions was on increasing mutual trade to $5bn and reviewing ongoing projects, as per Caspian news.

Bolat highlighted the importance of updating the agreement on mutual promotion and protection of investments and touched upon the Turkish companies' active role in Turkmenistan.

We discussed the steps that the sides could take to achieve $5bn worth of mutual trade, updating agreements on investments, and exploring new areas of collaboration, Bolat said.
