The Armenian Ministry of Defense has approved a decision to appoint a defense attaché to the European Union, citing significant developments in Armenias defense and military cooperation with Belgium and the EU in recent times.

The support provided to Armenia under the European Peace Facility, the launch of negotiations on Armenias participation in EU crisis management missions, and the substantial expansion of the security and defense component in the new Armenia-EU partnership agenda have created favorable conditions for further developing military cooperation with the EU. Additionally, Armenias recently initiated military cooperation with Belgium may, in the long run, contribute positively to enhancing Armenias defense capabilities and resilience, the official document states.
