Turkish and Finnish foreign ministers pledge to expand joint defense projects and address regional security challenges from Ukraine to Gaza

Turkish Foreign Minister Hakan Fidan said on Wednesday that Türkiye aims to expand defense industry cooperation with Finland through concrete projects between institutions and companies, describing the effort as one that would strengthen NATO's deterrence and bolster Europe's overall security and defense capacity.

Fidan made the remarks at a joint news conference in Helsinki with his Finnish counterpart, Elina Valtonen, following talks focused on bilateral ties and regional security.
