Kazakhstan is interested in participating in the TRIPP (The Trump Route for International Peace and Prosperity) project, President Kassym-Jomart Tokayev told the media following talks with Armenian Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan, Trend reports.

According to him, the new geopolitical situation in the South Caucasus creates favorable conditions for the development of bilateral and interregional contacts.

We also confirm our interest in participating in the TRIPP International Route of Peace and Prosperity project. The connection of these strategic corridors with the Trans-Caspian International Transport Route and the North-South Corridor is in the interests of both countries, the head of state said.
