German Chancellor Friedrich Merz stated that the initialing of a peace agreement between Azerbaijan and Armenia has created a new opportunity for Yerevan to move closer to the European Union.

Speaking at a joint news conference in Berlin with Armenian Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan, Merz said the peace process between Yerevan and Baku showed that "joint efforts, diplomacy and mutual respect can lead to sustainable peace processes", The Caspian Post reports, citing local media.

He stressed that peace with Azerbaijan had been a key factor in opening a European perspective for Armenia.
