As 2025 draws to a close, Kyrgyzstan is finishing the year with steady socio-economic growth, strengthened public finances, and an expanded international presence. By the end of the year, the country demonstrated stable dynamics across key macroeconomic indicators, reinforced its fiscal position, and intensified participation in international financial and investment processes. The results of socio-economic development were summarized by Chairman of the Cabinet of Ministers and Head of the Presidential Administration of Kyrgyzstan, Adylbek Kasymaliev, during a session of Parliament, where both achieved outcomes and future development priorities were outlined.

The economy has shown accelerated growth for the second consecutive year. In 2024, real GDP growth reached 11.5%, significantly exceeding the initial forecast of 9%. Positive momentum continued in 2025, with GDP growth reaching 10.2% in the first 11 months. Nominal GDP increased from 639 billion soms ($7.3 billion) in 2020 to 1.6 trillion soms ($18.3 billion) in 2024 and, according to government estimates, is expected to exceed 1.8 trillion soms ($20.5 billion) by the end of 2025. This indicates that Kyrgyzstans economy has nearly tripled in size over recent years.
