For the first time, Armenian citizens are not leaving the country, they are returning, Prime Minister Nikol Pashinyan said in a conversation with reporters, noting that his leadership has brought Armenia to this point.

We have reached a stage where tens of thousands of citizens receive healthcare services funded by the state budget. We have brought Armenia to a state of peace and full independence, he added.

When asked, Ararat or Aragats?, Pashinyan reframed the question as state or non-state?
