EU Observer (30 January 2026)

John Clarke

This weeks EU-India free trade agreement (FTA) was less the mother of all trade deals, more (as the sexist old joke used to have it) the mother-in-law. But still very valuable.

The EU-India FTA negotiations just signed (after 20 years!) liberalise □ fully or partly □ 99 percent of Indian exports to Europe and over 95 percent of EU exports to India.

Key service sectors like financial, maritime and corporate transfers are also opened.
