Armenia has applied for a third round of assistance under the European Peace Facility (EPF), Foreign Minister Ararat Mirzoyan told parliament on Monday.

The request follows earlier EU support provided through the EPF, a mechanism established in 2021 to fund non-lethal military capabilities aimed at promoting peace, preventing conflict, and strengthening international security.

In January, the European Union approved    million (about $23 million) in non-lethal military assistance to Armenia under the second program. The decision had initially been blocked by Hungary, which had conditioned its approval on allocating an equal amount of aid to Azerbaijan.
