72 HOURS TO HUNGARY'S ELECTION: A CRUSHING TISZA VICTORY - OR DOWNFALL OF THE POLLSTERS?

09.04.2026

EU Observer (8 April 2026)

Veronika MUNK

With three days to go before Hungary's election, the opposition Tisza party is riding high in the final independent polls, while leaked recordings, allegations of false-flag tactics and a high-profile visit by JD Vance intensify the sense of a system under strain. Whether this is the beginning of an historic transfer of power or the moment the pollsters get it spectacularly wrong will soon be clear.
