Aleksandar Vučić snapped at Magyar, calling his comments about Putin playing Godfather to autocrats "foolish" and "stupid". The Hungarian Prime Minister-elect claimed the Russian leader pulls the strings in Serbia too.

Serbian President Aleksandar Vučić became the first foreign leader to clash with Hungary's Prime Minister-elect Péter Magyar, just one day after Sunday's parliamentary elections.

Magyar's Tisza Party secured a landslide victory at the polls, ending Viktor Orbán's 16-year grip on power. Orbán and Vučić had maintained close political ties throughout that period.
