
FRENCH COURT FINDS AUTHOR GUILTY OF DOWNPLAYING RWANDAN GENOCIDE

-

10.12.2024

BBC News (10 December 2024)

Basillioh Rukanga

A court in France has found French-Cameroonian author Charles Onana guilty of downplaying the Rwandan genocide.

The 60-year-old writer was fined ($8,900; £7,000) and Damien Serieyx, his publishing director from Éditions du Toucan, was ordered to pay They are also required to pay €11,000 in compensation to human rights organisations that that filed the suit.

The Paris court ruled that Onana's writings violated France's laws prohibiting genocide denial and incitement to hatred, noting that France would "no longer be a haven for denialists".

Click for more

Kaynak/Source: