Turkish Cyprus President Tufan Erhürman affirmed on Friday that the Turkish Cypriot side would never compromise on political equality, describing it as a non-negotiable principle enshrined in U.N. Security Council resolutions.

Speaking to Anadolu Agency after a handover ceremony in Lefkosa, Erhürman stated: "Political equality is my vital red line. It cannot be up for negotiation."

He warned that whenever political equality becomes a bargaining chip, "the Greek Cypriot leadership uses it as a pretext to withdraw from the table."
